REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE

1. The amendment filed 11/22/2004 and the supplemental amendment filed 1/11/2005 has been entered. Claims 1-10,13-14, and 17-22 have been canceled. Claims 11-12 and 15-16 are pending in this Office action.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 11-12, 15, 16 are allowed.

3. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: Nabicht et al fail to disclose the first automatically adjustable DSL modem wherein the first stage receiver comprising: a pair of amplifier circuits, each amplifier circuit including a switching device coupled and controlled by the data processor for selectively switching in additional resistance to decrease the gain of the amplifier circuit in response to detection of a high amplitude downstream DSL signal as recited in claim 11; a loss circuit coupled to and controlled by the data processor for attenuating the down stream signal in response to the data processor determining that a high amplitude downstream DSL signal is present, wherein the loss circuit further comprises a switching device coupled to a resistor, the switching device being coupled to and controlled by the data processor to switch in the resistor to selectively attenuate the down stream signal as recited in claim 15; and the data processor being configured to adjust the analog front end according to whether the amplitude of the downstream signal is greater than a predetermined threshold to prevent the analog end from being saturated by high amplitude downstream signals; and a passive loss circuit coupled to and controlled by the data processor for attenuating the downstream signal in response to the data processor detecting a downstream signal greater than the predetermined threshold as recited in claim 16.
